Film And Literature: A Comparative Approach To Adaptation (Studies In Comparative Literature: No. 1)

Synopsis

Classic films can and do derive from classic literature, but the predication and process by which they arrive stirs debate among veteran filmmakers and scholars alike. How these films endure despite their tailoring for specific stars, audiences, and contemporary social or political messages seems as much a function of showmanship as it does the screenwriter's artful translation for the medium of film. From their varying vantage points, the contributors to this volume explore classic American and foreign films, the novels and dramas from which they derive, auteur cinema, and the complexities of adaptation.

This was a book I ordered to better prepare me to teach how film is adapted from texts, how techniques are used to bring out key themes, etc. This is a good college level intro to the genre of film/lit. Good quality upon arrival as well. Look forward to getting into my personal studies over summer holiday with the book.
